INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — SafeSpace, a statewide certified domestic violence shelter serving the Treasure Coast, has opened a new shelter in Indian River County. Due to the nature of the shelter, the location remains confidential.

The organization had an opening ceremony in February that was attended by members of the Galaxy family. Through the help of the Galaxy family foundation, the family had donated a donation of $10,000 to make helping open the new facility possible. SafeSpace is non-profit, and its mission is to provide a safe haven for women and children who are experiencing domestic violence.

The shelter provides 16 fully equipped units for women and children. The shelter is located in a private, residential area and features a variety of amenities, including a fitness center, a play area for children, and a community room.

In addition to providing a safe space for women and children, SafeSpace offers a variety of programs and services to help them heal and move forward from their experiences of domestic violence. These programs include counseling, legal advocacy, and support groups.

SafeSpace is a proud member of the National Domestic Violence Hotline and the National Domestic Violence Resource Center. SafeSpace is dedicated to providing support and resources to survivors of domestic violence in their local communities.
